

Presentation skills

The clear and effective delivery of information through a presentation is a key skill, extremely necessary to the generation of the year 2030

Determining your mistakes and gaps in your presentation skills is the first step. It is never too late to learn

Tip and tricks on how to improve your presentation skills

Tip 1.	Tip 2.	Tip 3.
Keeping eye contact with your audience makes the presentation feel more like a discussion. It also exudes confidence and increases engagement. No looking at the screen, no looking at the floor!	Practice makes perfect. Do not begin getting familiar with your presentation while presenting it. Even rehearsing it in front of an imaginary audience is an amazing way of getting familiar with presenting.	Filler words such as "um", "uhh", etc. must be avoided as much as possible. They radiate a feeling of insecurity and lack of preparation.

Be confident

Radiating self-confidence even if you are nervous is making you appear reliable and professional.
